

NAME: Hillary Clinton
Date of birth: October 26, 1947

FENG SHUI Profiling: Earth, Earth, Earth 8 . 2 . 2

Earth, earth, earth: This is a heavy cycle, queasily immobile. One should introduce in life the wood element with red and purple colors, or with plants and with high rectangular forms. One should bring also the fire element with the same colors as well as with triangular forms.

Birth Energy:	Mountain	(earth, yang)
Control Energy:	Valley	(earth, yin)
Destination Energy:	Valley	(earth, yin)

The Energy of the Mountain: General Profile

THERE WAS ONCE THE REVOLUTION !...

If you are looking for a soft and understanding energy... Stay away!! The energy of the mountain is monumental, imposing, and overly present. Being born in this energy gives body, substance, strong principles and the strength to live by them.

It sounds flattering... So why do we think that the natives of this energy are not as simple as they look? Well, first of all, most of them have forgotten to grow-up. Even after being successful in their businesses and careers, they are still the way they were in the school yard. Their relationship system is of one piece: They love or they hate. When they love, it is for the whole life, and they demand exclusiveness!.. On both sides.

Despite the appearance, they need a strong partner to help them carrying-on their projects all the way to the end. When doing it alone, they get stuck in the middle.

Their difficulties to have serene relationships should not make you forget about their real qualities. They are rigid and sometimes authoritarian, and excel in all domains requiring management, analysis, structure and innovation, while staying pragmatic.

Honest to their core, they can revolutionize the domain they are involved in, and focus all their efforts to their goals. When needed, they also know when to become unscrupulous if their own interest is at stake, surprising their entourages.

When it comes to love, they are fragile. They want to have strong relationships without concessions. When betrayed, they rarely give a second chance. While well anchored and strongly attached to their material belongings, they will sometimes fall madly in love with unsuspected passion. But in any case, they have to keep the control of the relationship.

Best emotional relations: With natives of the valley, of the sun and of the mist

Best professional relations: With natives of the moon, of the sky, of the valley and of the mountain

Relentless worker

Organized

Stressed

stubborn

Attentive to details

Calm

Aware of its capacities

Modus Operande: Individual profile

It is the same energy as Charles Dickens, Fedora Dostoyevsky, John Steinbeck, Ronald Reagan, Leonardo di Caprio, Jean Harlow, Grace Kelly, and Tina Turner...

Motivated and proud, She knows how to seduce. She possessed an attracting kind of calm power. This apparent calmness hide much ambition and a monumental willpower. Like a German Sheppard, she never relax her focus before reaching her goal.

She dreams of independence and social status, however, her sensibility and her dependency can sometime put a break to her way to the top. In fact, her life would be so much easier if she would accept to stay in a "second role" beside a powerful ally who will open the doors for her... But her pride is in the way! She HAS to take control!

She likes to live well and work hard, taking initiatives and proposing new ideas. Despite her motivation, her brilliant mind and her good judgement, she gets often influenced by external circumstances.

She needs always to ne the center of attention. Profoundly loyal, she can consider others perspectives, but will focus on details, insignificant to others, annoying and tiring considerably her entourage.

Despite her rigidity, she easily attract sympathy, without having to open her heart. In love as well as in her career, she will always have hard time admitting that she is not infallible, and that others might be right sometimes.

2012 to 2013: What's behind

2012:When the energy of the Mountain meets the energy of the Mist

No more austerity, it was party time! Money flows, and this native of the mountain cannot complain: everybody comes to her help. She was able to relax ... That was a first!

2013:When the energy of the Mountain meets its own energy

The party is over! Everything change. It was the perfect time to move, change activity and begin to work on long term projects. It was a period of calm and serenity for retreat and inner development particularly appreciated by this native. Time was like suspended.

2014, 2015 and 2016: What's ahead

2014:When the energy of the Mountain meets the energy of the Sun

It is the year where everybody recognize her merits, and she loves it! But it is also a year where nothing can be kept hidden and where she gets easily exhausted. She should rest more than usual.

2015:When the energy of the Mountain meets the energy of the Moon

This is a time where she must be patient, formulating her projects, studying, and designing her future without putting it into action. This native of the mountain, introspective by nature, will appreciate this slow period. In reality, it only seems to be calm. The energy continue to progress in an hidden manner. A little bit of patience will bring excellent results.

2016:When the energy of the Mountain meets the energy of the Valley

Enough isolation! This native of the mountain will have to come out of her cocoon, All relationships with others are on the agenda: both associations and separations. It is also a ideal time to some order in her life and put the past behind. Everything move, but as fast as she would like.
